CELEBRATE THE NATIONAL PARKS SERVICE CENTENNIAL THIS SUMMER WITH THESE THREE ADVENTURE TRIPS

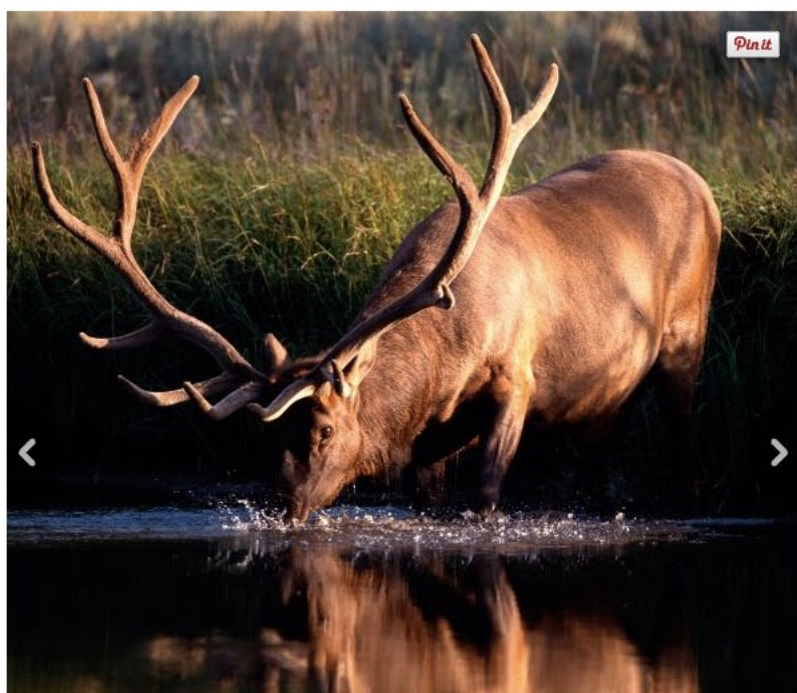

BY CRISTINA GOYANES

This August 25th marks the 100-year-anniversary of the National Park Service (NPS), which was born when President Woodrow Wilson signed the “Organic Act” to protect the then 35 national parks and monuments across the country. Ten decades later, the NPS has grown to include more than 400 of America’s most beautiful natural wonders, spanning more than 84 million acres in 50 states. It’s easy to #FindYourPark (the NPS’s initiative to encourage people to get out and celebrate the centennial) on just a few tanks of gas. Pack the car, lace up your hiking boots and head for the hills to personally wish a national park near you a happy birthday. If you’re up for traveling a bit further, here are three great places to explore wilderness at its best.

Yellowstone, Grand Teton, and Glacier

When it comes to national parks, you can’t ignore the grand-daddy of the them all: Yellowstone National Park. Join Exodus Travels on a 12-day tour of the world’s first national park (established in 1872), plus its two superstar neighbors the Grand Teton and Glacier National Parks. Beyond exploring geysers, hot springs, rocky spires, mighty canyons and wildlife like bears and wolves, you’ll also get to discover a good chunk of the U.S. This extraordinary trip cuts through five states, including Utah, Wyoming, Idaho, Montana, and Washington, so if you haven’t made it out west yet, consider this the ultimate introduction.
